

About Me

I am a somewhat quiet and reserved person yet fun-loving at the same time.

I enjoy learning new things and meeting new people. I am usually a very positive person with a big smile. My passion has always been learning about technologies, exploring data and hoping to find some undiscovered secrets. I have spent years in the industry working in Data Management.

I am hoping to become a Data Scientist. However, any title that is stored upon me as I continue my journey is welcomed.

I am so glad that you have taken the time to view my presentation.

I thank you.
